COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

Recently 1,000 yards of sand was stockpiled at the Town Garage for winter roads. Thirty-five tons of salt was added to the sand to improve the adhesive quality of the material on icy roads. This is the same amount that was stockpiled for last winter, and if the winter is normal should be ample for our requirements.

Payments on 1957 taxes through Nov. 15th are nearly double in comparison to a year ago. One factor is the reason that the bills were mailed out a little earlier this year.

The town books close on Dec. 1st, and all taxes must be paid by this date. If not paid the name of the delinquent taxpayer is printed in the town report. The taxpayer is then subject to any of several collection procedures that the collector has at his discretion.

About two weeks ago notices were mailed to individuals who were listed as having a dog on April 1st but had not paid the required license fee. To date the response has been very good, over two-thirds of those notified have either paid the license or notified the office that their dog was killed.

On Friday, at 7 p. m., at the West Parish Congregational Church, the Cub Scouts will entertain the Brownies. Games will be played, awards presented, and refreshments served.

The Zeta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, will meet Friday at 5:30 p. m., at the Crescent Park School.

An initiation will be held as well as the business meeting. Lunch will be held at 6:30 p. m., at the Window Box. The speaker will be George Bowhay, his topic, "A Lesson to Learn." Hostesses will be Mrs. Olive Lurvey, Miss Helen Varner, Mrs. Daphne Merrill.

Jerrold Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gibbs, celebrated his sixth birthday on Wednesday, Nov. 20, with a party at his home. They played games. Those who won prizes were: David York, Mitchell Robertson, Michael Helme and Craig Walker. Others present were: Andy Davis, Michael Coburn, Wayne Davis, Barrie Wing, Gregory Bryant, Tommy and Danny Gibbs. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Walter Marcus entertained at a party at her home last Wednesday afternoon, in celebration of the sixth birthday of her twin son and daughter, John and Jeanette. Games were played. Refreshments of birthday cake and ice cream were served. Those present were Cynthia and Stephen Hastings, Mary Hillier, Carolyn Lucas, Philippe Rolfe, Andy Davis, Jack Chapman, Sude, Jeannette and John Marcuse. Linda Mathews sent a gift but was unable to attend.

MUSKIE URGES SUCCESSFUL COMPLETE REGISTRATION OF VICTIMS OF ARTHRITIS

Governor Edmund S. Muskie asked the people of Maine today to bring the state's first Arthritis Registration to a successful conclusion in the remaining days of November.

The Governor noted that reports to the Pine Tree Chapter, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, show that the registration is lagging in some sections of Maine.

"Facts are the basis for action," the Governor said. "The facts on the number of persons in Maine who have arthritis are important in whatever future action may be taken to lighten the burden of this crippling disease.

"It is clear that thousands of Maine men, women and children have the misfortune to suffer from arthritis or rheumatism. I urge them to be sure to fill out a registration card at once if they have not yet done so."

The registration is free, voluntary, and involves no obligation.

Registration cards are available in all Maine drug stores.

BETHEL PRE-SCHOOL CHILD CENSUS SHOWS PRIMARY GRADE DROP

Results of the recently completed Bethel pre-school child census reveal that the beginning grades and total enrollment will remain about the same until a small entering class starts in 1961. Indications are that there may be a leveling-off at that time. Below are figures for classes entering in the Bethel schools for the next five years. You will note that the class averages for the next five year period are somewhat smaller than the averages for the present four primary grades.

BETHEL P. T. A. TO SPONSOR TOY PARTY NEXT MONTH

The third meeting of the Bethel P.T.A. was held at Crescent Park School with 61 members and friends in attendance. Mrs. Charles Freeman was hostess for the evening.

President Edith Eppen called the meeting to order. The treasurer's and secretary's reports were read and accepted. The secretary read a letter from the Central Maine Power Co. inviting the group to a train show of schools of yesteryear and those of today.

Stan Davis, reporting for the program committee, presented plans to sponsor a toy party, with the P.T.A. receiving a percentage of the profit. The group voted to have this affair on Dec. 6 at Crescent Park School. Toys may be either purchased on the spot or orders will be taken. The project committee is in charge of this.

The P.T.A. voted to buy coffee cups to be used at the school for serving at the meetings. National P.T.A. magazines and State P.T.A. magazines for the officers were suggested and the P.T.A. voted to buy these.

Monique and Harold Rolfe were appointed as chairmen to take care of the toys for the Christmas bazaar.

Charles Hicino report on the progress of the skating rink. Emerson Clough has donated the use of his bulldozer and labor.

The Crescent Park luncheon would appreciate donations of holders and dish towels.

A "buzz" session was held by groups to discuss ideas for projects for the year. The group came out with these ideas to be voted on at next meeting as to which project to spend money for.

ACROSS the DESK

Sent from other editors.

From the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N. H.: Just in case Right-to-Work laws might become popular in this so-called "Land of the Free and Home of the Brave," the latest gimmick of organized Labor is to PERMIT workers who do not wish to join unions to merely pay dues!

The theory is that since such workers will enjoy advantages the unions have fought for through the years, they should contribute toward union support whether they believe in unionism or not. To the unthinking, this position may appear just and logical. All that is wrong with it is that the unions would continue to falter on the toil of all who work in the areas they have staked out for themselves; those opposed would contribute to growing union power in the same measure as loyal members; and the Right-to-Work principle, even though established by law, would be nullified in practice.

Under such an arrangement, a non-union worker would still be pressured into paying tribute to a union for the privilege of working—in this case for trying to assert a freedom that he obviously would not have.

If this theory is right, a newly-organized union member should pay back-does for all the years his union may have been struggling for wages and benefits he now enjoys—perhaps since before he was born: Or a bricklayer (for instance) should perhaps make a contribution to the architect who decided on brick instead of something else for the building he is working on, to the brickyard and to the people whose lime and sand provide him with mortar. If this theory is right, the teacher who is voted a raise should bring apples to the kids—instead of vice versa.

Such a proposal is, purely and simply, a shack-down to provide unions with funds to fight Right-to-Work laws. And this in turn suggests that any organization that can maintain its position only through fear and force has outlived its usefulness.

Powerful and rich as they are, the unions should snap and reflect that the greatness of the labor movement stems from members who considered it a privilege to join—voluntarily. Union officials must revive this sentiment in the hearts of workers if organized labor is to live. It will not be done by taxing those who want no part of unionism.

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

"There is peace in Budapest today—peace and quiet—but it is the peace of a graveyard and the quiet of a detention ward." Thus writes Harrison E. Salisbury, a Pulitzer Prize winner and a correspondent of wide experience behind the Iron Curtain, in the New York Times Magazine. Mr. Salisbury relates in graphic detail the Hungarian revolt of October of last year, an event that stirred the whole free world, and, afterwards, made the whole free world ashamed that it could do or did as little for a while—a few days—it seemed as if this incredible battle against tyranny, led by a comparatively handful of ill-armed Freedom Fighters, might actually succeed. The dreaded secret police were defeated, and many of them killed; the regime was temporarily overthrown and a new one installed. But this lasted a pitifully short time. The Freedom Fighters were defeated, and asked for help that never came. Then a great mechanized Soviet army rolled in and the revolt was drowned in its own blood. The puppet regime was restored to power, backed by bayonets, tanks and all the apparatus of terror. Some 30,000 men and women died in a vain fight for liberty. Their tolls have since been swelled by brutal reprisals.

What is life like in captive Hungary now? Little more than a year later? That question is vividly answered by Alan A. Michie, reporting in a recent issue of Newsweek.

The spirit of active resistance of the great wave of the Hungarian people has not been quenched. But the ranks of resistance have been eight Soviet divisions are to was powerless to aid the needy. Then one Salvationist had an idea: The kettle was raised out, and hung beside the street, with a sign "Keep the kettle boiling." Interested passers-by dropped in contributions. The day was saved.

So great was the appeal of The Salvation Army kettle, that the public adopted it as a symbol of Christmas aid.

Bogart, La., Progress: "Get Your Kettle on the August issue of The Ladies Home Journal, a publication which we confess we only read in the fair sex. However, in the August issue of that publication is an article by Doreen Thompson, under the title, 'How Our Schools Be Castles' if we remember rightly. At any rate, there's food for thought there."

The Salvation Army is conducting its annual Christmas appeal for the needy, and as it has for more than half a century.

In this little weekly column, I find this not in "print." The full title: "After and I are not doing it now. But so many have asked about the origin of this hat, that I thought it might be of interest to tell about it here."

In the year 1904, just before Christmas, there was a serious depression in the city of San Francisco. Thousands were out of work, and were to be helped by The Salvation Army. Then there was a big crowd on the street. Hundreds of men, women and passengers were given shelter at Salvation Army houses, but when there was not a large kettle, not even these would enough to go around.

Funds were exhausted, for the first time. The Salvation Army turned to the local newspaper for help. The paper suggested that the kettle be hung on the street, with a sign "Keep the kettle boiling." Interested passers-by dropped in contributions. The day was saved.

The next year, 1905, the newspaper subscription was $100 a year. The second year, $100. Costs were then one year old. In 1906, costs were $100. The third year, $100. Costs were

MAINE FEATURED ON NBC'S "MONITOR"

"Maine ranks as one of the greatest natural playgrounds in the world, but its abundant water power attracted industry as early as 1809, and the influx continues today at an accelerated pace," said Alex Dreier in his Salute to Maine Sunday, Nov. 18, on NBC-Monitor over a coast-to-coast radio net.

Radio stations WRDO, Augusta; WLBZ, Bangor; WCBM, Portland; and WNAC, Boston, Mass., were among the nearly 200 NBC Network stations carrying the tribute.

The Maine salute was one of a series of radio programs featuring Alex Dreier, who has been a top NBC news analyst for 17 years.

Governor Edmund G. Muskie addressed the nation's radio audience at the start of the broadcast, saying, "The State of Maine is famous as a vacation wonderland, with our thousands of miles of coastline, our myriad lakes and streams. But are equally proud of our thriving industry and agriculture. Our thanks to Alex Dreier for this radio tribute. Once you visit Maine, you'll want to come again."

A vivid picture of Maine's millions of wild acres of timber, teeming lakes and streams, jagged coastline, deep harbors, and tall, mountainous was given by Alex Dreier. "The Pine Tree State remains one of the most healthful and enchantingly beautiful places in the world," he said. "It is nature's omnibus, offering something for everyone, from the antique collectors who haunt the inland towns, and fishing villages to the wealthy and fashionable who find Bar Harbor, Dark Harbor and York Harbor bracing in the summer. Towns like Ogunquit bring out the brush and palette in the artistic ones, but the more rugged types head for those rugged woods filled with black bear, deer and grouse. There are no more wild Indians to fight, but a man can pretend that a ferocious Penobscot or Passamaquoddy

dy lurks behind the next bend in the road, and a boy can actually see him there, deep in the dark green forest.

"The first permanent settlement was made on the Saco River in 1823 and the centuries-old game of trying to tame Maine began," he continued. "It is still going on, and the latest score-card shows that Maine is still winning."

Dreier paid tribute to Maine's famous native sons and daughters, among them Thoreau, Longfellow, Hawthorne, Harriet Beecher Stowe and painter Winslow Homer. He described Maine's busy cities:

"More than 75,000 people toll in Portland, Maine's chief seaport, handled by two million tons of produce each year, home of giant fisheries and paper and food-packing plants, headquarters of the North Atlantic Fleet during World War II," he said. "Lewiston is the textile and shoe manufacturer. Bangor is an important commercial and industrial city; Augusta, the state capital, has paper manufacturing and cotton goods industries; Kittery specializes in submarine repair for the U. S. fleet; Castine is the most easterly city in the nation, and Norway is home of the world's largest snowshoe factory. Mount Katahdin is the first degree of U. S. soil to greet the morning sun each day."

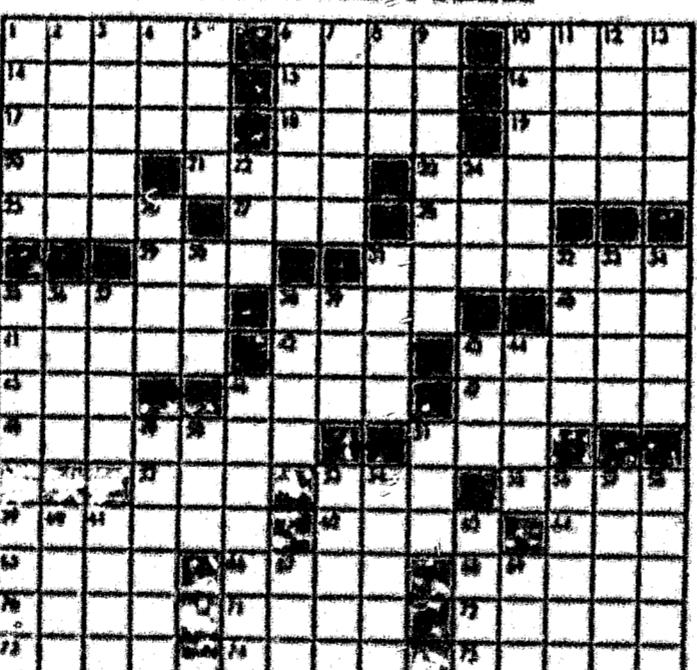

"This is the place to come, this mighty Maine," Dreier concluded, "rich in water and wood and wildlife; a place to linger, to walk slowly and observe carefully; to relax, to live a little longer, and to enjoy doing it."

SCHOOL NEWS

We are making Thanksgiving decorations and they have to be finished before our Thanksgiving weekend. The winter garden the Brownies made for us looks very pretty on our table with our Thanksgiving ornaments. It was nice to have so many visitors during American Education Week and we hope they will visit us again this year. We have our baby pictures display on the bulletin board. Last week we made two chemical gardens and they are very pretty. Some pupils who have had mumps and flu are back, but today, Tuesday, there are four absent because of sickness. We now have thirty pupils in our room because David Foy has gone to Bryant Pond. In language we are learning how to use quotation marks when we write the exact words of someone.

Grade 6—Miss Varner

We were glad to have eleven guests visit our room during American Education Week. We hope they and others will come visit our school at any time. In Science, we are working on projects to be displayed on Friday. We are working on the reduction of fractions in Arithmetic. In English we are finding verbs in sentences. Our attendance has not been very good on account of illness, the mumps and colds. We hope everyone will be back soon. —Reporter, Traitor Westcott.

French Club (by Roz Liston)

The French Club of Gould Academy, sponsored by Mr. Auger, a recent addition to the faculty, has presented several interesting programs to its members during the meetings which are held twice a month. The officers of this organization who were elected by their classmates are President, Roy Liston of Wilton, Conn.; Vice-President, Sara Ault of Wayne; Secretary, Susan Merrill of Skowhegan; and Treasurer, William Gallagher of Naples.

Miss Kimball gave a most informative talk on her trip to Europe last summer and also showed the group a series of slides which revealed some of the famous landmarks found on the continent, as well as the general atmosphere and landscapes common to the various countries she visited.

Mr. Auger discussed the system of education in France and brought out the main points of his subject by means of colored slides which depicted the method of schooling prevalent in that country. The topic proved to be quite enlightening and gave the French Club members a better understanding of life in France, particularly in respect to the student and his educational facilities.

Movies, more talks, and some social events are on the agenda for the coming weeks; so this year's French Club is certainly able to look forward to a very rewarding year!

Freshman Party

Sandra Allen sang a solo; Susan Rock played a trumpet solo; and David Myers led the band from music composed of James Bennett, Claire Berry, Marjane Brown, and Steven Aulay.

Girls' A. A. Activities

by Ruth Willard

The Blue and Gold hockey game has been played, the final score being a tie. Those "eligible" were those who had attended the required number of practices.

At the start of the new term the girls have signed up for bowling, volleyball, or badminton. It is possible to sign up for all of these. The percentage of participation in these sports is high; now that the girls are in the full swing of school activities they are turning their interests to sports.
